NEW SCOUT HOUSE FOR GIRL TROOP

Acquire Use of Dwelling Formerly Occupied By Mrs. McCave—Sponsored by S. J. A.

Girl Scout Troop No. 2 composed of mostly students of St. Joseph Academy have recently acquired a scout house in the cottage formerly occupied by Mrs. H. McCave, housekeeper for the Catholic rectory who left Bay St. Louis, and which they equipped thoroughly as a club room and camping place with the funds they had placed to build with.

The troop abandoned the idea of building and endeavoring to equip a new house recently because of uncertain conditions, when the house they are now using was available, deemed it extremely fortunate to be able to acquire such and use the money which they had earned in making a comfortable scout house in which to hold their meetings and enjoy the many activities which the troop has planned.

The troop is sponsored by Sister M. Adele and Sister M. Grace and several of the mothers of the members, namely Mesdames L. J. Fernandez, S. Piazza and Leo Ford who assisted from time to time in scout activities.

Any girl twelve years and over is eligible to join the classes which are free, the only requirement being that the materials used in making a garment are to be provided by the student, and the earlier the student begins, naturally, the more she will gain.

Classes are held each Monday and Friday morning from nine until twelve o'clock in the new Home Economics room of Bay High School and anyone wishing to learn to sew may attend.

DOUBLE PROGRAM AT A. & C. THEATER ON SUNDAY-MON., 29-30

Jack London's Sea Wolf Story on the Screen—Louis-Conn Fight Pictures.

In addition to Jack London's famous story of "The Sea Wolf," dramatically and graphically portrayed on the screen Sunday and Monday evenings, the A. & C. Theater will show the Louis-Conn fight pictures, films taken along side of the ring. This is an exclusive picture and is brand new. Fight fans will not want to miss this reproduction of the actual fight.

"The Sea Wolf" with Edw. G. Robinson, Ida Lupino and John Carrfield, presented by Warner Bros. is the sensation of the season for thrills and a story narrative, a picture that will long linger after the show is over.

The power and fury of the raging sea surged from the pen of Jack London as he wrote this story of hate-ridden "Wolf" Larsen and his fear-crazed crew! And now, the year's greatest cast brings it to the screen... every scene alive and display ad elsewhere in this issue of The Echo.

VISITS SCHOOL GARDENS

State Supervisor of School Lunch Garden and Canning Projects Compliments Local Workers.

Miss Olive Kline, State Supervisor of the school lunch, garden and canning project, whose headquarters are in Jackson, was in the county on Tuesday, June 26th, and went with Miss Caro Weston, county supervisor of the project on inspection visits to all the gardens and canning centers in the county.

Miss Kline found the work most satisfactory, the gardens were in good condition and the women were very busy canning. She spoke very well of the work that is being done in this county, she also made a few suggestions to the workers in units, on ways they can arrange their equipment so that it will be more convenient.

16,000 cans have been sent into the county this past week. These cans were brought by the W. P. A. to be used in the canning center. We hope to have them all filled, also many jars and cans we now already have on hand. The produce will be used in the W. P. A. lunch rooms next school term.

The women have been very busy canning apples that have been sent by Commodity Distribution Division.

At the canning center in Bay St. Louis, located in the Home Economics Building of the Valera School, Friday five women assigned to the project earned 144 cents. Some of the Monday earnings were less, but most of it was applied.

Early Bay St. Louis Reminiscences of Senator Pat Harrison—Launched His Career Here.

Passing of Senator Pat Harrison removes from Mississippi one of its most brilliant sons and capable men, who rose from the private ranks of young manhood to a position in life next to the President and vice president of the United States. No man was better known and more beloved in the State than "Our Own Pat" as he was affectionately termed.

The writer never will forget when Pat Harrison first came to Bay St. Louis. He had been teaching school. He first saw the light of day at Crystal Springs, Miss.

He had come to Bay St. Louis unknown, unheard of. His first place of stopping was at the courthouse where he met the late Joseph E. Saucier, then sheriff and tax-collector. From that moment, both became fast friends and remained so during life.

Sheriff Saucier accompanied Pat to the office of The Sea Coast Echo and introduced him as a candidate for district attorney. Sheriff Saucier had pledged support to the candidacy as had this newspaper.

Starting from The Echo office both Mr. Saucier and the publisher of The Echo personally conducted the youthful candidate for political favor over the city and vicinity. He never forgot. Repeatedly from time to time there were manifestations of his gratitude. He never forgot a friend.

Harrison had an engaging and most magnetic personality. He immediately registered on being introduced, and improved with acquaintance.

Bay St. Louis and Hancock county voted overwhelmingly for the young man, promising indeed, and who was destined to a great career. During life he frequently referred to "Joe" Saucier and Hancock county saying it was from here he made his start and grew up.

Hancock county ever voted for him. He carried it every other

FISH FOR HANCOCK STREAMS

25,000 Small Green Trout Placed in Jordan River And Bayous.

Harry Witter, President of the Hancock County Fish and Game Protective Association and Randolph Bourgeois, State Game Warden, have just completed the distribution of 25,000 small green trout in Jordan River, Bayou Lacroix, Bayou Phillip to replenish fish in these streams.

Fish were brought from the U. S. Fish Hatchery at Lyman, Miss., and this is the fourth batch that has been distributed in the streams in the past few years, supplying fishermen with an abundance of fish in the future.

Lovers of fishing report recently some excellent catches in these streams which, if were not periodically replenished with the small fish would soon be exhausted.

Must Renew Fishing License. "Fishing licenses will expire on June 30, 1941, and must be renewed. This is important and should be attended to at once," says Randolph Bourgeois, game warden. Non-residents must have a fishing license regardless of the kind of tackle being used, and for all ages, while fishing in streams where fresh water fish abound. Residents only need fishing license when using artificial bait on casting rods and fly-rods for fresh water fish.

The State Game and Fish Commission is enforcing the laws to the letter and one may save embarrassment and penalty of fine by securing a license before going fishing.

There is no license required for fishing for salt water fish. Any further information may be secured from Game Warden Randolph Bourgeois, at his home Ballentine street. Resident fishing license is $1.25 and non-resident $2.25. Resident family license $2.25.

He has served the public well, efficiently and courteously and his re-appointment is received as good news and means for continued good service. This goes for his associates as well.

LOCAL MAN WILL HEAD BLDG. CO.

At Biloxi Area—Gaynell Land Company to Construct 217 Dwellings—W. J. Gex, President.

Biloxi, Miss., June 25—Construction of 217 homes is contemplated in Biloxi by the Gaynell Land Co., it was announced today.

The company already has purchased 73 lots in Oak Park, and has options on two groups of 55 and 34 lots in the western section of Biloxi. The incorporators of the Gaynell Land Co., are Walter Gex, Bay St. Louis, and M. H. Dees and Eugene Peresich, Biloxi.

John T. Collins, Biloxi architect, is drawing plans for some of the homes and some bids have been received for construction. It is expected to start construction within two weeks. Building such a large group of homes will speed their construction and the first units are expected to be completed within six weeks after their start. The homes will cost from $3000 to $3500 each and will be built for sale purposes, according to one of the incorporators.

Several weeks ago the syndicate announced purchase of Oak Park property and the plans for the new homes in that section.

In addition to his large block of homes city and chamber of commerce officials have requested the Federal Housing Authority to build another unit of about 175 colored homes.

All of these and many more will be needed to care for the heavy influx of people caused by the school here.

On the basis of $3500 to the house the outlay for 217 homes would be $759,000.

GARMENT MATERIAL ARRIVES

For Second Quota of Sewing By Volunteer Red Cross Workers.

The Production Department of the Hancock Chapter of the American Red Cross is in receipt of material for its second quota of garments to be made and Mrs. G. Y. Blaize and members of her committee have been busy all of this week having materials cut and riding yarn for crocheting shawls and the women of Bay St. Louis are urged to call and volunteer their services for the sewing, crocheting and knitting of garments which will have to be completed within a specified time for shipment.

The Red Cross Sewing Room is located on the second floor of the Courthouse, and a call there or a phone call either to Mrs. G. Y. Blaize or Mrs. Dennis F. Burge offering one's services will be appreciated.

Women of Bay St. Louis, as the war situation grows in immensity and seriousness each day, we are urged to take our part in this great work and come forward at once and do our part.

Deanna Durbin Captivating In First Sophisticated Role In "Nice Girl" at Ortte's

Deanna Durbin is seen in an American small town setting for the first time and has her first real "big city" romance in Universal's "Nice Girl" playing at the Ortte Theater Sunday and Monday.

The eight previous hits starring Deanna and produced by Joe Pasternak have given her settings in New York City and other metropolises, Switzerland, Hawaii and old Vienna.

"Nice Girl" has its setting in the fictitious New England town of Stillwater, Connecticut, where Deanna, Ann Gill and Anne Gwynne are daughter of a high school principal and scientist, the latter played by Robert Benchley.

Franchot Tone, appearing with Deanna for the first time, portrays a young New Yorker who comes to Stillwater as representative of a scientific foundation interested in Benchley's discoveries.

Described as Deanna's most mature vehicle to date, "Nice Girl" was directed by William Seiter.

The star sings five numbers four of them popular tunes including the stirring new patriotic song, "Thank You, America."

Thousands of people in all walks of life traveled towards Gulfport Wednesday forenoon to attend the last rites for Senator Pat Harrison, held at the First Methodist Church, to which all members of the special train from Washington, officials from Jackson, other officials and members of the press were admitted to remain in the spacious edifice.

On the outside of the church thousands stood and heard the service by means of loud speaking apparatus.

Such profusion and wealth of flowers have never been seen. From Hancock county came a design forming a large American flag, composed of immortelles in natural color of red and white and blue sent by the Board of Supervisors. It was an unusual and handsome design and stood out prominently where hundreds of designs were placed around the bier. This piece was originated and constructed by the Lorraine Flower Shop at Pass Christian.

SENATOR PAT HARRISON

Every county along the coast sent floral offerings and many of the coast cities. Mayors and other municipal officials attended.

Senator Harrison died at Washington Sunday morning, following an abdominal operation for the removal of an intestinal obstruction. His case seemed hopeless soon after the operation and he sank rapidly. His death was given out due to exhaustion as direct and immediate cause.

A special train with some thirty senators and other national dignitaries conveyed the body, reaching Gulfport Wednesday morning. From the train a later hour, it was taken to the Methodist church, where it reposed in state. It was accorded a similar honor in the Senate at Washington Monday afternoon when thousands viewed the body, passing in single file review.

Senator Harrison had been ill for a long while, the result of overwork. He had spent several months at Hot Springs, Ark., prior to his return to Washington shortly before the operation, having gone there for a complete rest from his arduous duties.

He was a native of Crystal Springs, Miss. Graduating from university, he taught school for a while and later moved to Leakesville, Green county, Miss., where he practiced law.

It was from here, after establishing residence in this district, that he announced for district attorney, and made a sweeping race. Young, magnetic and learned, and of a most engaging personality he soon won the esteem and confidence of the people.

Later he was elected to Congress and following his success in the Lower House, he announced his candidacy against Senator James K. Vardaman. He was elected, and in all served the people of this section and state for thirty years.

He is survived by his widow and two married daughters. One son, resident of Gulfport, also survives, and is married.

Senator Harrison's life is too well known to those who knew him and to the readers of newspapers to relate here in detail. Space does not permit. However, his was a life of success and the best tribute we may pay him is that he had never let down a friend.

He was only 59 years old, and the city is he sacrificed his life for his country. His demise is exceedingly regretted and his place will be difficult to fill.

There might be a successor to the position vacant but there will be no successor to Pat Harrison.

SERVICE FOR THOSE IN SERVICE.

THE President has asked the people of the country to support the thirty-day campaign of the United Service Organization to raise $10,760,000 to defray the operating costs of 350 service clubs for members of the armed forces and for workers in the emergency industrial areas.

The campaign goal will provide services for many thousands of young men and women in hundreds of towns where the influx of soldiers or industrial workers has presented problems which are entirely beyond the resources of the local community to handle. By contributing to the organization, the people of every section of the United States will be helping to care for soldiers, sailors and defense workers, which includes individuals from every county in the nation.

1,392 PLANES IN FIVE MONTHS.

MANY Americans have been wondering how many airplanes have been sent to the British by the United States.

We have no available information upon the total number of planes that have been produced in this country for British use but the Office of Production Management reports that the production of aircraft for the first five months of 1941 was as follows, 1,036, 972, 1,216, 1,389 and 1,334. This adds up to 5,947 airplanes made in this country in the present year.

Figures published in the U. S. News show that during these five months the British received 1,392 airplanes from the United States. This leaves available for our use or for shipment elsewhere, 4,555 planes. Obviously, the British are not receiving all of the planes that are produced in the United States.

AS TO LOCAL REALTY VALUES.

WHILE people who spend their time complaining of high and allegedly excessive taxes and generally decrying the town, wise ones are taking advantage of prospects for the immediate future and buying real estate—improved and otherwise.

There has been considerable buying of late, piecemeal and land in large parcels, and well founded rumors are thick and fast regarding early improvements, possibilities and prospective transactions.

Many indications point to the fact both city and county are at the turning point, and it might be well to sit up and take notice! Knocking and decrying has never accomplished anything worthwhile.

GREEN TROUT FOR LOCAL WATERS.

THE depositing of 25,000 small green trout in the waters of Jordan river and tributary waters, as chronicled elsewhere in this issue of The Sea Coast Echo, is well worthy of note.

Our local fish warden and associates are worthy of commendation for their efforts and subsequent success.

It might not be realized to the extent the fact warrants, but it is nevertheless true fishing is one of our biggest assets.

Figures reveal that more money is spent and efforts exerted by out-door sportsmen and others for the sport of fishing than any other sporting and pastime pursuit.

This number of green trout deposited in local waters by federal auspice is a contribution of value.

NEW OFFICERS OF MISSISSIPPI PRESS ASSOCIATION.

THE Mississippi Press Association held its annual convention at Gulfport, June 12-14. This meeting was the Diamond Jubilee Convention of the Association, and was one of the finest conventions in the long life of the association. J. L. McCorkle, of the Hazlehurst Courier, was elected president of the Association, Jack Dale, of the North Mississippi Herald at Water Valley, vice-president, Charles N. Harris, of the Meridian County Herald, at Canton, was elected treasurer, and John Lewis, of the Woodville Republican, secretary.

Governor Paul B. Johnson has announced that Mississippi's cooperation in the nation-wide Fight for Freedom Committee will be sponsored by the State Civilian Defense Council, headed by Colonel Leo Robinson, of Centerville. Col. Leo Robinson announces that a state-wide meeting is being planned at which Wendell Wilkie, one of the chief supporters of the Fight for Freedom unit, will be invited to attend and deliver the principal address. The date of the meeting will be announced later.

Accidents on Hancock county highways could be reduced if every motorist would be courteous even when behind the steering wheel.

This is a good time for parents to caution all children about the dangers that are connected with the old swimming hole.

An observer points out that for so much defense work at hand and the usual activity prevailing, there is little or no rise in business. If there is, it is only in the spot market. Surely this section of Bay St. Louis has not felt any advance in business.

SENATOR PAT HARRISON

THE press of the nation this week pays tribute to the memory of a great son, Senator Pat Harrison.

Truly a great light has gone out. Pat Harrison, like all great men who dedicate their lives to public service, died a martyr. For thirty years he labored incessantly for the welfare of the people of his state of the nation and for the country he served.

Mississippi has had no greater man. We do not dim the lustre of Walthall, Lamar, George, John Sharp Williams and others whose names will ever shine on the escutcheon of the State, but Mississippi has had no greater man than Pat Harrison.

His name will ever live down the corridors of time and on the pages of history. His work is his monument.

The nation, particularly at this time of crisis, can ill afford to sustain such loss. Regardless of party lines, affiliations, and differences of opinion he was regarded and respected by all men.

A personal friend of President Roosevelt, advisor and counsellor with the big minds and heads of the ship of state, he sat in on their conferences and was ever consulted.

The loss is irreparable. No man will fill the vacancy. For in addition to ability and genius to do, Senator Harrison had thirty years of active experience—something that cannot be had only after the elapse of years.

A resident of the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and the country from where he made his start, as he always referred to with pride, he was a particular friend of this section. The Gulf Coast owes much to him. The outstanding projects and various betterments that we enjoy today come from the labors of Senator Harrison.

FOR SUNDAY MOVIES.

GOVERNOR Paul B. Johnson will recommend to the 1942 legislature that Sunday Blue Laws be modified to permit Sunday motion picture performances during the emergency, a local American Legion Post's amusement committee reported today.

The committee, which included State Senator Mitchell Robinson of Hinds county and recreation and welfare officers at the Jackson air base, reported the governor at a conference said he had "already made up my mind on Sunday movies, at least as long as the emergency lasts and we have thousands of soldiers in the state to be entertained."

"After talking with my own son who is down at Camp Blanding and after seeing the soldiers without anything to do in Hattiesburg on Sunday, I am convinced that the moving pictures should be open on the Sabbath to give them entertainment," Johnson told the committee.

Such is the report that comes through the Associated Press. It is high time a progressive State like Mississippi was realizing its backward attitude in adhering to the blue laws of old when the country then was such as to make possible such laws necessary.

We feel certain the next legislature will take the proper view of movies on Sunday and allow the people this innocent, harmless and highly educational amusement. Gov. Johnson has taken the right attitude, and is wise to see the emergency arising that justifies the repeal of an out-of-date law. Surely an antique!

BREAKING INTO MASS PRODUCTION.

IT IS very important for impatient patriots, concerned about what they consider the slowness of our defense program, to understand the full import of the recent statement by Guy W. Vaughan, president of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation.

In speaking at exercises connected with the dedication of a new $37,000,000 plant, constructed and in production since October 23rd, of last year, Mr. Wright pointed out that the nation has nearly completed the blueprint and construction period of the defense program and is "about to break through into mass production in accordance with schedule."

It is heartening to hear that, in his opinion, "no other nation in the world could have accomplished this great armament program with such speed and efficiency." As to the plant of his own company, the largest and most modern engine plant in the country, he says that in less than five months an "open field" began manufacturing operations and, eight months after ground-breaking, the new plant produced its first engine.

The new plant, one of many similar enterprises now coming into large-scale production in various phases of the defense effort, will make 1,700-horsepower engines of the Wright Cyclone type. In a year it will be turning them out at the rate of 1,000 a month which, if it means nothing to you, means much to Adolf Hitler.

CONTRIBUTE SCRAP ALUMINUM.

AFTER checking the results obtained in test drives in four counties of Virginia and Wisconsin, the office of Production Management will soon appeal to the people of the United States to salvage 20,000,000 pounds of aluminum from kitchen pots and pans and various sources of scrap metal.

In the tests, recently completed at Richmond, Va., and Madison, Wisconsin, some 80,000 pounds of aluminum, three or four times the amount expected, were collected. This is enough, according to officials, to build nearly three long-range bombers.

The people of Hancock county, we feel sure, will enthusiastically cooperate with the people of other sections in this salvage enterprise which will mean much to the defense program of the United States. They will provide the needed metal for more than six hundred giant flying fortresses which will help to keep this country free and independent.

Governor Paul B. Johnson has proclaimed the week of July 14-20 as "Aid to British Lumber Week" in Mississippi, and urges that it be observed throughout the state by all our citizens. To promote the spirit of fraternity and understanding among the wage earners of both countries in their mutual loyalty and devotion to democracy.

With The Press

SENATOR PAT HARRISON

(N. O. Times-Picayune)

THE passing of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi is rightly accounted a serious national loss to be sincerely regretted by American believers in democratic principles throughout the nation. For Mississippi's senior senator was a Democrat in the wide and full sense of the term. Because he did not always see eye to eye with the New Deal leadership of his party during the past decade, he missed election as majority leader in the Senate by the narrow margin of a single vote—cast ironically enough by his Mississippi colleague. Notwithstanding that defeat, his gifts for leadership demonstrated many times during his long service, frequently were invoked, to the day of his incapacitation by illness, to pilot measures through the House of Elders.

This year he was honored by election as president pro tem of the Senate, and his thirtieth anniversary of congressional service was given unique nonpartisan celebration by his colleagues of all parties.

As chairman of the powerful Senate finance committee, as one of the Senate's most effective debaters, by reason of his wide popularity and the confidence reposed in his judgments in and outside of Congress, Senator Harrison was recognized and esteemed the country over as one of the ablest and most useful of our present day senators.

Entering the House as representative of the Sixth Mississippi district in 1910, his courage and mettle were proven by his contest in 1918 for the Senate seat occupied by the late Senator Vardaman, then the most powerful figure in Mississippi politics. Mr. Vardaman had fallen out with the Wilson administration on the war issue of 1917, supporters of the administration's war course urged the young Sixth district Congressman to make the race for the Senate. He won handsily over the incumbent Senator Vardaman and another candidate and was serving his fourth consecutive term when death called.

His popularity by no means was confined to Mississippi. The South in general hailed him as one of its ablest champions at Washington. He was much more of course, than a local representative of his state and section. He was wise enough to see and brave enough to serve the national general interest and welfare.

So the entire nation shares the sorrow of Mississippi and the South over the loss of a public servant who strove diligently to measure up to his responsibilities as a Senator of the United States while loyally serving his state. Many thousands in and outside of Mississippi—including a large contingent in this neighbor state of Louisiana—mourn the loss of a tried and true personal friend whose fine human qualities will be affectionately remembered through the years.

Better to Be Safe Than To Be Sorry, Red Cross Warns

Washington, D. C.—The Fourth of July week-end will be even more hazardous than in previous years because of increased congestion on the highways and at resort and recreation centers resulting in part from National Defense activities, it was pointed out by Harold E. Enlow, director of First Aid, Water Safety and Accident Prevention of the American Red Cross.

Traffic death figures for the first three months of 1941 released by the National Safety Council, reveal that for this year the toll has surpassed 40,000 deaths—an all-time high. Highway fatalities last year totaled 34,000—an increase of seven per cent over the total for 1939. Deaths from drowning each year average approximately 7,000.

The vacationist must not only see to his own safety, but must anticipate the carelessness of others. Mr. Enlow warned. The mistake of one motorist may result in fatality to those who may be obeying all the rules of the road.

This year's list of accidental deaths and injuries will be largely the result of carelessness and ignorance. For a safe Fourth of July, Mr. Enlow offers the following suggestions:

To motorists: Get an early start for the holiday week-end trip to get ahead of the congestion and allow plenty of time.

Make a thorough checkup of your tires, brakes, lights and steering gear, for many accidents are the result of faulty equipment.

Keep an eye on the "other fellow" who may cause the accident.

Be sure luggage placed in the back of the car does not obscure rear vision.

Sacrifice that last hour at the beach and leave for home before the crowd.

Remember that driving after dark is many times more hazardous and after-dark accidents are frequently more serious.

Swimmers: Enjoy your water sports at patrolled beaches. Bear in mind that expert swimmers can be drowned from cramps caused by swimming too soon after eating.

Hollywood Echoes.

LONG regarded as a medium of entertainment and information, the moving picture is rapidly filling an important place in the training of new or even experienced soldiers in the changing methods of warfare. While Germany has consistently used instructional films in the development of its armed forces, this country, aside from a spurt during the last war, has done nothing along this line.

However, due to the insistent and persistent efforts of Lieut. Col. Melvin E. Gillette, a pioneer in military visual education, the first Training Film Field Unit was established in June, 1937. Today this initial unit has a personnel of 150 writers, directors, editors, animators, camera men, technicians and assistants, the majority of whom have had extensive experience in newsreel, commercial, documentary or entertainment techniques.

Based at Fort Monmouth, these men work together to explain visually to soldiers the use of new instruments of warfare, the proper defense of ground troops against strafing from the air, the emplacement and destructive capacities of various types of bombs, and numerous and sundry other vital subjects, important in the proper defense of themselves and their country.

The army's film program serves to show what may be done in peacetime through a broad-scale use of visual instruction to rapidly train workmen in the use of complex tools so vital to industry.

College students with acting talent will be given an opportunity to develop and prove their ability during the vacation period by Warner's, who, in its search for new faces, has formulated the plan whereby they will select a limited number of students, take them to Hollywood and teach them the tricks of film acting. They will have first call on the services of those who saw the most promise, when they complete their schooling.

Miss Barbara Barton, niece of Bruce Barton, and a junior at Christian College, Columbia, Mo., was the first to be signed under the new plan. She recently arrived in Hollywood to begin her training.

The task of fostering good will between the Latin-American Republics and the United States through the media of the screen has been given to Cecil B. DeMille by John Hay Whitney, co-ordinator of commercial and cultural relations between the American republics, motion picture industry. Former efforts of Hollywood have not been very successful.

Bob Hope, whose spectacular rise in popularity with both film and radio fans, has been given a new contract by Paramount, said to be $150,000 a picture. The new term contract supplants his former one, although it still had several years to run.

Joe Pasternak, whose remarkable success as producer of the Deanna Durbin films at Universal, will leave that studio on August 1, after completing her next film, "Almost an Angel." Pasternak, who has been with Universal for sixteen years, started at a salary of $35 a week and came to Hollywood as producer in 1936 from Berlin, where he had charge of the company's European production. His plans for the future have not been announced.

George Montgomery will star in three additional Zane Grey stories for Fox, following completion of his current film, "The Last of the Duanees." They will be, in order, "Riders of the Purple Sage," "Rainbow Trail" and "The Lone Star Ranger." All have been filmed before.

Ann Sheridan will have the role made famous by Ethel Merman in the screen version of "Panama Hattie" and George Murphy will appear as Nick Belton, played on Broadway by James Dunn.

When Jean Arthur appeared in "The Devil and Miss Jones," she received a salary of $100,000, plus a percentage of the receipts from a picture. She stands to make around $250,000 as a result of the present age cut, as the picture is an outstanding box office success.

According to Paulette Goddard, the life of a movie actress is not a bed of roses. When she's working, she has to get up at 5:30 in the morning and go to bed at 7:30. The only compensation for a life like that is the $5,000 she receives every week. Not bad, we say.

Roland Wall, WPA administrator for Mississippi, tells us that at least 41 per cent of those now employed under that agency must be immediately suspended. We're not surprised. As a matter of fact the unemployment emergency is over, and any able-bodied man or woman who knows how to do any one thing well can find a job in private industry. Federal relief, in future, should be confined to the aged and infirm.

"Freezing" order aims to bar Axis use of dollar balance here.

Many can be drowned from cramps caused by swimming too soon after eating.

"WORTH THE PRICE"

Below is a copy of editorial which appeared in the Meridian Star on Sunday, June 8, 1941:

"Worth the Price." A seller urges buyers not to buy his goods. It sounds incredible—but true. Protracted drought has reduced hydroelectric power production. Uncle Sam needs increased electric current to manufacture armament. Hence, the Mississippi Power Company urges power patrons to decrease the use of electricity—which means less business and smaller profits or larger losses for the company. A patriotic free will offering for national security. This seeming paradox reveals the soul of one of our so-called "good" corporations. Naturally, Meridian and the Meridian are well "go along." We are eager to make any needed sacrifice to save democracy. Opportunities to serve are almost as numerous as our individual social-economic needs. Conserve electric power. Use water as sparingly as possible. Buy U. S. defense stamps or bonds. Subscribe liberally to our soldier recreation fund. Do and give what we can. No matter what the cost or total self-denial, America is worth the total price.

HOMES for aged, convalescent wards and charity wards for privately owned hospitals gave service to 8,811 charity patients from July 1, 1940 to March 31, 1941, states Roland Wall, W. P. A. Administrator for Mississippi. In a project of benefits to these institutions Administrator Wall estimates 178 male and 358 female employees will perform 6,804 man-months of work and the institutions will receive $410,000.00 in hospital services. This project is sponsored jointly by the State Board of Development and the W. P. A.

The Mississippi Travelers Association held a most beneficial and enjoyable session in Jackson June 6 and 7, including a banquet at which Judge Garland Lyell acted as toastmaster, and a dance on Friday night, June 6.

Extra profits may be had from cotton on many farms in Mississippi, by the use of extra nitrogen, applied as a side dressing, according to W. B. Andrews, Associate Agronomist for the Mississippi Experiment Station. In numerous tests reported, a pound of nitrogen fertilizer gave, on the average, an extra pound of seed cotton.

George Worthen, of Union, Mississippi, who was elected Secretary of State of Magnolia Boys' State, on the Federalist ticket June 9-14, found the duties of his office most complex, varied and detailed. However, young Worthen was very observant, has a keen mind, and rapidly absorbed the duties of the office. He enjoyed his three day stay in the department, and Secretary Wood, and each member of his staff, were delighted to have him with them. He will always find a welcome in the office whenever he returns to Jackson.

A tip to housewives: Warm water and old newspapers will clean your windows and put a real shine on them. Wash the window with one newspaper and then use a dry one to wipe it with, and you will be surprised how attractive your windows will look. No soap is needed.

That Jackson, Mississippi's growing capital city is gaining recognition is evidenced by the fact that the Jackson Chamber of Commerce has received and answered two thousand mail inquiries concerning Jackson, during January, February, March and April of this year.

Secretary of State Walker Wood took time off from his secretarial duties last week to attend the annual convention of the Mississippi Press Association at Gulfport, June 12, 13, and 14.

During the remaining days of June the following conventions will be

LIBRARY NOTES

The library has purchased a lovely book entitled "World Famous Paintings" by Rockwell Kent. We can't all visit the galleries but we may have access to this delightful book.

From the Carnegie Division of Intercourse and Education comes the very interesting "An American Democrat."

"These recollections of Perry Belmont are offered as a contribution to American Political history," says the reviewer. Readers need not be introduced to Perry Belmont and this book is a rare treat.

The library regrets having to call its readers' attention to over-due books. Some have been most thoughtful about returning their books. We have set aside June 27, 28 and 29, 30 as the days when these books may be returned free of fines. You may not realize that we have more than 100 books over due a large number of which belong to the central station at Jackson so you see these books are no more our property than yours. We appeal to your citizenship. Please remember to return your over due books on June 27, 28, 29 and June 30.

The Christian Science Monitor tells this one:

"The draftee on his way to camp asked a stranger, draftee No. 2. 'Do you happen to have a match?' 'Sure,' was the No. 2's reply 'but I'm not giving you any.' 'But why?' was the startled reply.

"Well, said No. Two, 'we'll get to chiming. And if we get to chiming we'll wind up buddies. And if we're buddies we'll get in the same tent. If we're in the same tent and same squad then we'll volunteer together for special missions. Maybe we'll even get a dangerous night job, then we'll have to use flashlights. And if the flashlights should happen to go out some night in enemy territory, I sure don't want to be stranded out there in the dark with some one who doesn't even carry matches."

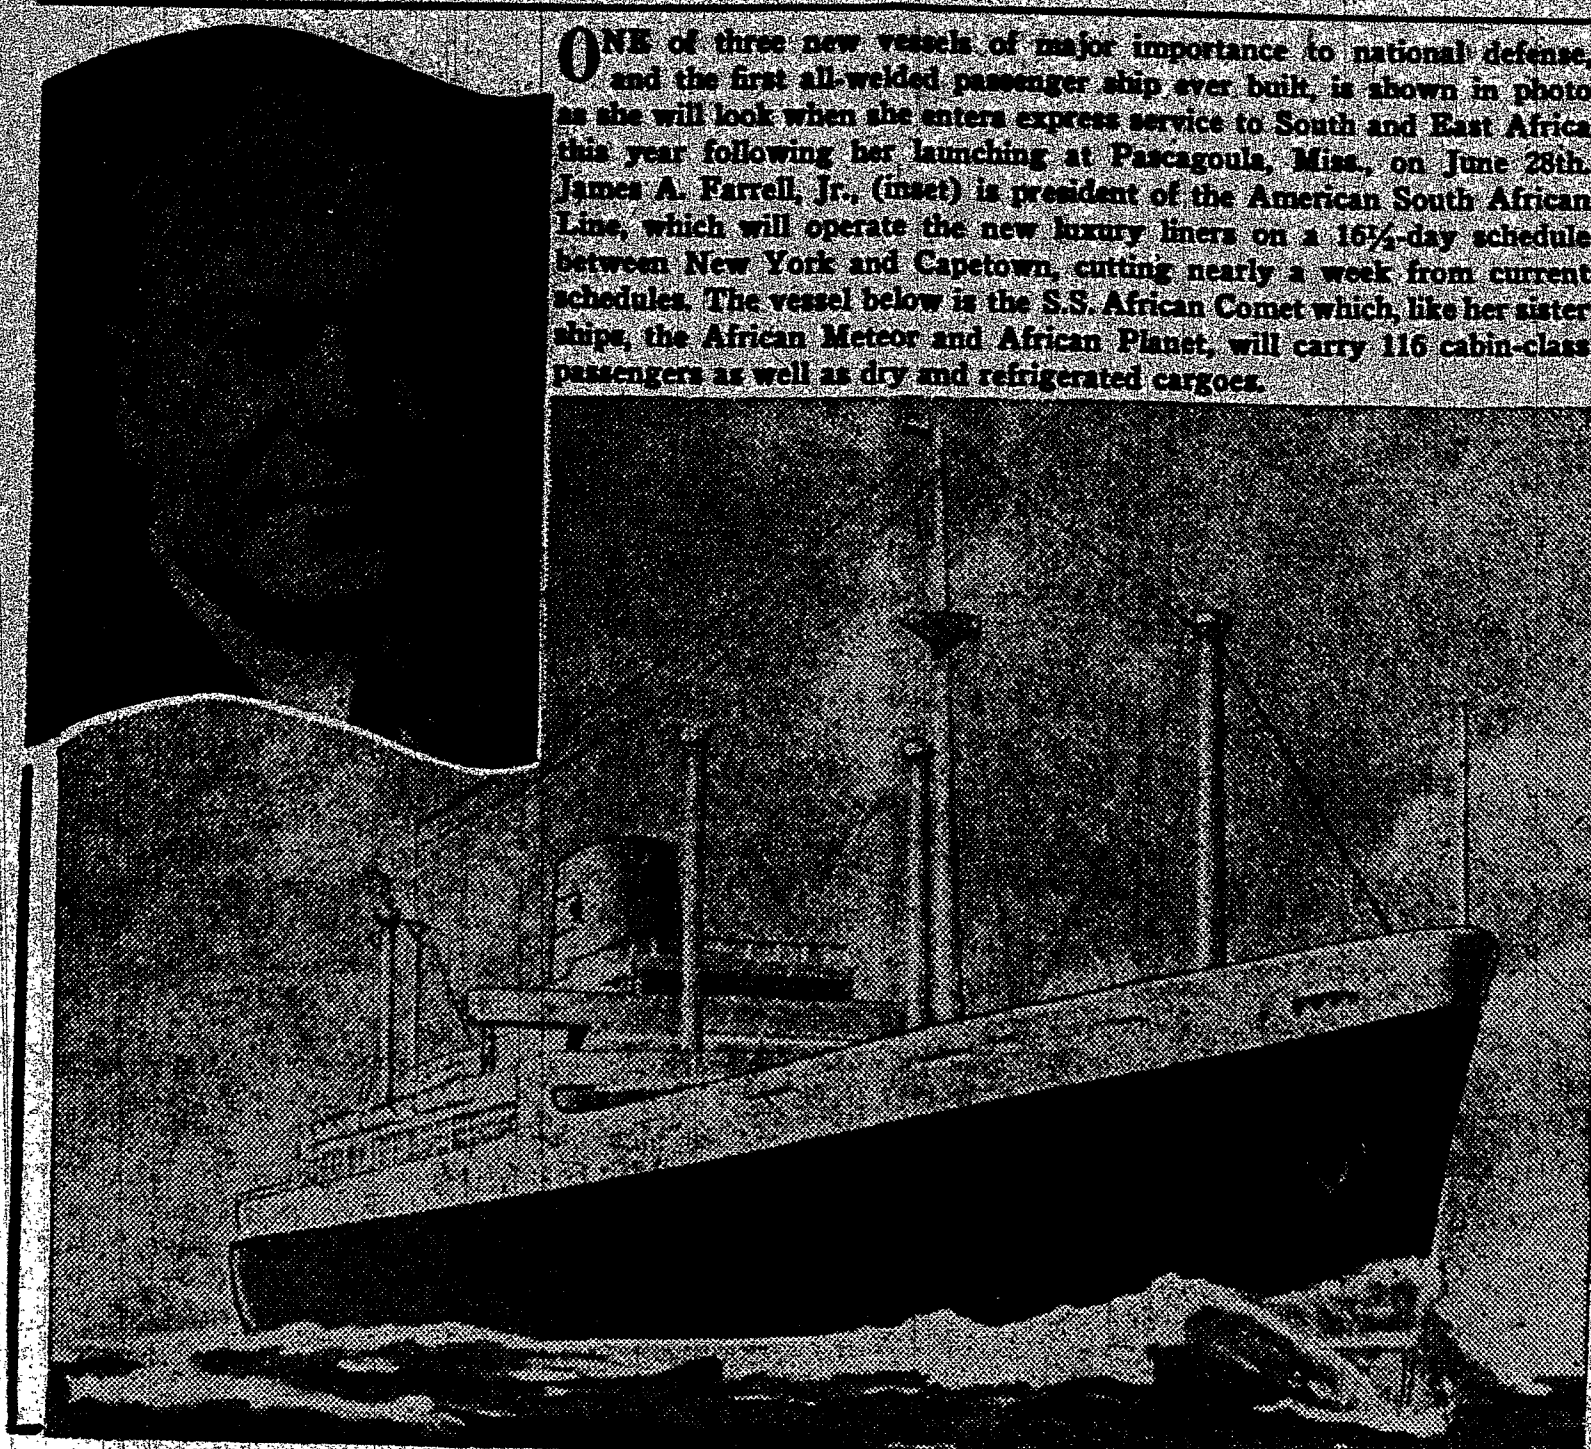

held in Jackson: June 17-25; Presbyterian Young Peoples Conference, June 23-24; Mississippi Skeet Association Championship, June 25-27; State Board of Health Conference, June 26-July 2.

Commissions were issued to each young man attending Magnolia Boys' State by Walker Wood, Secretary of State. This required extra clerical work by the staff, but the commission made a valuable souvenir for the young men of their services in Magnolia Boys' State, which they could carry home with them and show to their many friends.

Commissioner of Agriculture, S. C. Corley has just announced the appointment of J. C. Morton, of the Memphis Grain Exchange, as Grain Inspector for Mississippi. Mr. Morton will be located at Delta Experiment Station, Stoneville. He is a native of Lowndes county, and has had 14 years experience with the Memphis Grain Exchange.

First All-Welded Passenger Liner to be Launched

(Special to the Sea Coast Echo)

Pascagoula, Miss., June 26.—The S. S. African Comet, first of the three new combination passenger, cargo and refrigeration ships in a $13,000,000 expansion program for the American South African Line, will be launched here June 28th as the first all-welded passenger liner in the world. Christened 348 days after her keel was laid, the new streamlined 17,000-ton displacement vessel this autumn will enter express service linking the U. S. Eastern seaboard with Capetown and about 10 other parts of South and East Africa.

Miss Mary Farrell, daughter of John J. Farrell, chairman of the board, American South African Line, and Mrs. Farrell will christen the new ship, which has 473,880 cubic feet of dry cargo holds. Refrigeration holds of 57,270 cubic feet will provide vitally needed compartments for the importation of many South African fruits. Built by the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation, the vessel will be christened with South African champagne by Miss Farrell. Many prominent officials, including Admiral E. S. Land, chairman, U. S. Maritime Commission, the South African Consul, the Portuguese Minister and others, will be present.

Embodiment of luxurious passenger quarters comparable to those found on North Atlantic liners to Europe, the S. S. African Comet is 489 feet over all, with a beam of 69 feet and draught of 27 feet. She has accommodations for 116 cabin-class passengers, with each stateroom equipped with a private bath. All cabins are on the outside. The ship will reach Capetown 16½ days out of New York, cutting nearly a week from present schedules.

A strong link in the national defense program, the S. S. African Comet was ordered built by the U. S. Maritime Commission for the American South African Line at a cost of $4,000,000. Her two sister ships, the S. S. African Meteor and S. S. African Planet, also under construction here, will be launched in August and September. All of the new vessels will be in service this year.

The liner to be launched June 28 has five decks, besides its exceptionally large cargo and refrigeration holds. She is equipped with "Cargo Caire" special air conditioning system to safeguard cargoes passing through the tropics. She will help carry from South and East Africa to the United States the tons of manganese and chrome ore so vitally needed in national defense.

The Line, which is the oldest American flag operator in the United States-South and East African trade, was purchased in 1925 by John J. and James A. Farrell, Jr., from the U. S. Shipping Board. The average time for passage between New York and Capetown then was 31 days. In the new ship it will be 16½ days.

Cotton Crop Insurance.
In 1938 a crop insurance bill, to protect the farmer against crop failures, was passed, but the insurance program was limited to wheat. This experiment has worked out so well with that crop that the program is to be extended to cotton under the terms of a bill recently passed by both houses. This program is expected not only to save many farmers from losing their places and becoming tenants or going on the WPA but also to make unnecessary loans, grants, relief, and WPA employment payments to farmers, thereby saving the Government millions of dollars. The program would have covered, for example, the crop failure of last year due to excess rains.

Pensions for World War Dependents.
The House has passed a bill extending benefits to dependents of World War Veterans regardless of whether he died or had a service connected disability at the time of his death. A similar bill was passed by the House last year but died in the Senate.

Selective Service Amendments.
A two-fold amendment of the Selective Service and Training Act is now under consideration in Congress. It would (1) reduce the draft age by deferring from military service men who reach their 28th birthday by July 1 of this and succeeding years and would (2) strengthen the authority of the President to take over defense plants in dealing with strikes.

Acting Selective Service Director Hershey has pointed out that approximately 52 per cent of the men examined for service have been rejected—whereas only about 28 per cent of those in the 21 to 28 age group have been rejected. He pointed out further that about 77 per cent of the men inducted into service were 18 to 27 years of age, inclusive. The Army has indicated that it greatly prefers the younger men for they are more adaptable to the mechanized type of training being given. It was pointed out too that around a million men become eligible for service each year and that this is sufficient to fill the replacement needs of the Army now that it has reached its authorized strength of one million four hundred thousand.

The other amendment is a further effort to deal with the strikes in vital defense industries, to make those engaged in producing the implements of war subject to service for the common good just as those who are called upon to shoulder a rifle are. More specifically, these amendments would give the sanction of statute to such action as the President took in the North American Aviation strike on the west coast when he took over the plant with the strong arm of the Army. While permitting peaceful picketing of defense plants by labor unions, it specifically prohibits violence or such strong arm methods as have been used in many recent strikes by labor unions. The bill has received the sanction of the House Military Affairs Committee and the House Rules Committee. That it will be bitterly opposed by the labor unions when it reaches the floor of the house is generally conceded. Its probable success in the House will be largely determined by the attitude of the President, who has heretofore been slow to approve any anti-strike legislation.

A modern canning plant with a capacity of 1500 gallons per day has just been installed at Mississippi State Hospital at Whitfield, according to Dr. C. M. Speck, Superintendent. Dr. Speck says this plant will insure plenty of vegetables and fruits for the 3500 patients every day in the year, and at a greatly reduced cost.

DOCTOR A. J. PRICE FORMERLY OF BAY ST. LOUIS DIES AT G'PORT

Prominent Gulf Coast Dentist Died at His Home Saturday After Long Illness.

Funeral services were held Monday for Dr. Andrew Jerome Price, 60, prominent Gulfport dentist, who died at his home on 15th street and 21st avenue in Gulfport late Saturday afternoon following an extended illness.

Native of Brandon, Dr. Price went to Gulfport in 1906 to practice his profession and had been a practicing dentist there since that time. Graduate of the New Orleans School of Dentistry and the Louisville College of Dentistry, Dr. Price practiced for three years in D'Lo before coming to Bay St. Louis in 1905 and to Gulfport the following year. Member of the First Baptist Church in Gulfport, where he had been a member of the board of deacons for more than 30 years, Dr. Price was active in religious, fraternal and civic circles on the Coast. He was a Mason, a Shriner, a Knights Templar and member of the Council and was an active member of the State and American Dental Associations.

He married Miss Missia Naor May of D'Lo in 1908 after establishing his practice in Gulfport.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, Andrew J. Price, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. William Hewes and Mrs. R. I. Bradford, all of Gulfport, and three sisters, Mrs. W. A. Kennedy, D'Lo, Mrs. J. V. Gates, Port Texas, and Mrs. John Feschal, Nut Grove, Miss. The funeral services Monday were held at 10 o'clock A. M., at the residence with Rev. E. S. Dodge, pastor of Grace Memorial Baptist Church, presiding at burial was in Evergreen Cemetery.

The large attendance at the funeral rites and the hundreds of floral offerings attested to the popularity of Dr. Price in Gulfport and along the Coast.

Funeral services were Drs. R. E. L. Stuart, O. Harper, J. W. Harper, Brown Rodgers, Walter Peat and J. T. Taylor and David Miller and Emerich Ritter.
